meeting. Into the meeting-room crept the odor of pepper. Then the members began to sneeze. They sneezed until they became tired of it. The windows were raised, but the sneezing continued until the whole body was given the word to march on double-quick time, and the hall was soon emptied.

As the men were marching down stairs, they met Brother Hedink. To him was laid the plot of having sprinkled pepper on the stove. Things then began to look rather warm for Brother riedink, but when the street was reached, people were observed to be sneezing too. They were sneezing hard. The Forresters, after discovring where the odor of burned pepper came from, excused Brother Hedink.

People passing down Ocean avenue were compelled to walk on the opposite side of the street, but they sneezed just the same.

Next door to Tappen's on the ground

Next door to Tappen's on the ground floor is the office of Gilson Swezey. Here the odor of the pepper finally crept. It drove him and his crowd into the street. Then it crept into the large paper store of William Chapman. Chapman and his customers commenced to sneeze.

They couldn't check their sneezing, and they, too, took to the street. Mr. Tappen was given notice, so it is rumored, to vacate his rooms. Tappen claims to vacate his rooms. Tappen claims some malicious person put the pepper upon the stove for pure deviltry. It is safe to assert that the people of Patchogue did more sneezing in an hour last night than they ever did before.

BEAUTIES OF THE TROLLEY

Display of Electrical Pyrotechnic Seen in Brooklyn This Morning. Residents of Brooklyn who live along a further illustration of the beauties of the system this morning. It was an experience that they are not likely to forget very soon, either.

About 3 o'clock this morning the big snow scrapers were ordered out to clear snow scrapers were ordered out to clear the tracks.

Each sweeper was manned by six or eight lusty-lunged individuals, and they started out with a rush and a roar. The overhead wires were covered with ice and the imperfect connection caused myriads of tongues of fame to dart out with a crackling, hissing noise in all directions. As a display of electrical pyrotechnics it was a grand success. Along the residential streets through which the sweepers passed, the people were awakened, and wondered at the strange sight.

The delinquents were Norton & Gorman, cleaning Fulton street and Myrtle avenue; T. F. Byrnes, cleaning Atlantic avenue and Grand street, and Charles Hart, who has the contract for removing the snow on Court street.

The contractors said the heavy fall of snow during the night prevented their men from completing the work.

Commissioner White said the excuse was a good one, and for that reason he would not impose the full penalty. He warned the contractors that unless the work was completed by to-merrow morning they would be fined $40 each.

Plaich claims that the factory owner owed him a plano in return for goods, and when the people at the factory refused to give him an instrument he decided to take one.

It is alleged that on Dec. 30 Plaich drove up to the factory with four men. One of his assistants grabbed Penchert, who was alone in the factory, and threw him down. Then he sat on Penchert while Plaich and his three helpers put a plano on the elevator, ran it down four stories, loaded it on a truck and drove away. away.
